More farmers on more farmland, growing more sustainable food and fiber for our community
Situated less than 30 miles from Washington State’s largest urban centers, the Snoqualmie and Snohomish Valleys have historically been an important part of the farm basket of the greater Seattle area. Together we can help more farmers on more farmland grow even more sustainable food and fiber for our communities.

SnoValley Tilth supports and promotes local, organic and sustainable agriculture through:

- Developing local food systems
- Supporting and mentoring farmers
- Education in the community
- Farm-positive policy advocacy

Ways you can support your local and sustainable farmers:

- Buy from your local farmers
- Join a CSA
- Shop your local farmers market
- Become a SnoValley Tilth member!
